NORTHAM UP 8 POINTS IN VIRGINIA GOVERNOR'S RACE, QUINNIPIAC UNIVERSITY POLL FINDS;
ECONOMY, HEALTH CARE ARE TOP ISSUES FOR VOTERS

Wide gender and racial gaps mark the first post-primary survey of the Virginia governor's race, as Democratic Lt. Gov. Ralph Northam leads Republican Ed Gillespie 47 – 39 percent, according to a Quinnipiac University poll released today.

The Democrat leads 54 – 33 percent among women, while the Republican leads 47 – 39 percent among men, the independent Quinnipiac (KWIN-uh-pe-ack) University Poll finds. White voters back Gillespie 48 – 40 percent, while non-white voters back Northam 65 – 20 percent.

Gillespie leads 91 – 4 percent among Republicans while Northam takes Democrats 94 – 1 percent. Independent voters are divided with 40 percent for Gillespie and 38 percent for Northam.

Northam gets a 36 – 24 percent favorability rating, with 39 percent who haven't heard enough about him to form an opinion of him. Gillespie gets a split 29 – 29 percent favorability rating, with 39 percent who haven't heard enough to form an opinion.

In another boost for Democrats, Virginia voters say 48 – 41 percent that they would like to see the Democrats in control of the State Legislature.

The economy is the most important issue in deciding their vote for governor, 31 percent of voters say, while 30 percent list health care; 15 percent list education, with 10 percent each for taxes and immigration.

“Lt. Gov. Ralph Northam begins the general election as the favorite to become the Old Dominion's next governor. But not an overwhelming one,” said Peter A. Brown, assistant director of the Quinnipiac University Poll.

“The Democrat's margin over Republican Ed Gillespie is a product of national and Virginia factors.”

“Northam is certainly benefiting from the unpopularity of President Donald Trump. He also is getting a bump from his ties to fellow Democrat, Gov. Terry McAuliffe,” Brown added.

“Although Northam’s lead is just 47 – 39 percent, other data indicates the difficulty of the job facing Gillespie. Voters have a mixed view of Gillespie. By a three-two margin, they see Northam favorably. And, voters say they would prefer that the Democrats control the State Legislature.”

By a narrow 42 – 38 percent, Virginia voters say Gillespie would do a better job handling the economy. Looking at how candidates handle other issues:

- Northam tops Gillespie on handling health care, 46 – 33 percent;
- The Democrat leads on handling education 45 – 32 percent;
- 40 percent say Gillespie is better on taxes, while 37 percent pick Northam;
- Northam is better handling immigration, 40 percent say, while 37 percent pick Gillespie.

Only 25 percent of Virginia voters are more likely to vote for a candidate for governor who supports President Donald Trump, while 46 percent are less likely to vote for a Trump supporter and 28 percent say Trump support will have no impact on their vote for governor.

Gov. McAuliffe, U.S. Senators Approval Ratings

Gov. Terry McAuliffe gets a 47 – 37 percent job approval rating, compared to a 52 – 32 percent approval rating April 11.

Virginia voters approve 52 – 38 percent of the job U.S. Sen. Tim Kaine is doing and say 47 – 38 percent that he deserves reelection next year.

U.S. Sen. Mark Warner gets a 55 – 31 percent approval rating.

From June 15 – 20, Quinnipiac University surveyed 1,145 Virginia voters with a margin of error of +/- 3.8 percentage points, including design effect. Live interviewers call landlines and cell phones.

The Quinnipiac University Poll, directed by Douglas Schwartz, Ph.D., conducts public opinion surveys nationwide and in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Florida, Ohio, Virginia, Iowa and Colorado as a public service and for research.
